VISUAL

Higher sales taxes, a new tax on services like daycare or auto repair, higher property taxes, even higher federal income taxes	The capitol snapshot fades away and just the snapshot of Hoekstra is left. On the left side of the screen appears a newspaper article from the Detroit news with the words “...the sales tax and extending it to services, but then going to voters to ask for a sales tax boost...” Then the Hoekstra snapshot shifts to the left side of the screen and on the right appears a newspaper article from The Observe &amp; Eccentric newspaper, with the words “...asked if Hoekstra would change Proposal A...Hoekstra called for allowing local school districts to raise millage rates...” The Hoekstra images shifts to right side again and on the left side a newspaper article from hollandsentential.com reads “So maybe something like a tax on income taxes, like a surcharge”—Pete Hoekstra
Hoekstra said people look at him like he’s crazy. Call Congressman Hoekstra, tell him raising taxes is crazy. Text on Screen: “Call Pete Hoekstra. (202) 225-4401” “Tell him raising taxes...is CRAZY!” “Paid for by Americans for Job Security and not authorized by any candidate’s committee. www.savejobs.org Americans for Job Security is responsible for the content of this advertising.”	Then the Hoekstra snapshot is centered in front of a black background and animated text reading “CRAZY!” drops from the top of the frame with a spring-like noise.
